

Oak Grove Farm is in business!

Our farm stand officially opened for customers on Labor Day weekend, and we will be open weekends until Christmas. We are always drying, canning, or pickling something around here (all our foods that we sell, processed or fresh, we grow here on our farm), and we are in the middle of the autumn "retirement" of about 100 turkeys, guineas, and chickens, which we process ourselves. Grandpa Nic would be proud of me...I can dress a chicken in 2 minutes!

It has been a busy summer and fall, and I understand why farmers look forward to the winter season...it is our time off!

Contact Pattye Nicolls
www.oakgrovefarmny.com

WE SELL

- seasonal produce
- fall décor items
- jams & preserves
- canned produce
- honey
- poultry products

Searching for Inspiration

A Video by the Turkey Bowl Committee

Who is this?

Here are some quotes from this person.

- A good general never gives away any information he can possibly avoid.
- The older I get the less I care about what they say.
- I think I'm a terribly lucky coach.
- I've always been a high-strung individual. Maybe that's my artistic temperament tearing loose.
- You don't get along on mediocrity in football. You've got to be a winner.
- You just don't laugh your way to victory.

Time: 7:00 P.M.
Date: 11/26/2010

Place: Nicolls
Stadium Film
Room

If you could talk to one person who lived in the last 100 years, who would it be? I made my choice and I put together a 6 minute video from my interview.

Tickets are free for the 1st 100 people in the door!