The Insider

Aunt Ellen, you will be missed along with your warm smile, fun laugh and delicious pies.

A Little Known Story

By Hank Grover

Flying home from the cousins' reunion I was putting cousins, aunts, uncles and grandparents in order, placing Mom, a Grover, the Nicolls boys and Aunt Ruth, a Lewis, in the chronological hierarchy of our family. We Grover kids never knew our paternal grandparents, so I recently delved into The Ancestral History of William James Grover, a copy of which my Uncle Bill had given me a decade ago and I had never perused. This history included our grandfather, William Owen, his father, Romaine Abraham, and our great-great grandfather, William Orlando.

Here ends our ancestral history of the Grover lineage. You see, William Orlando Grover was at least half Indian, most probably of the Ottawa or Mingo tribe of northeastern Ohio.

The family history has it that he was half white and half Indian, left along the trail as a baby and taken in by a Grover family living in the Mesopotamia area of Trumbull County in 1835. The history continues on the maternal side of Dad's family back as far as the mid-sixteenth century in Essex, England, but I can't be more proud of having a little bit of me being all American.

1943—Donald Grover (Uncle Dunk) served in the Army. Rick Grover also served in the army.

In Honor of Veteran's Day

Thanks to all the military Veterans. To those who have served and to those now serving, we give you a big THANK YOU!

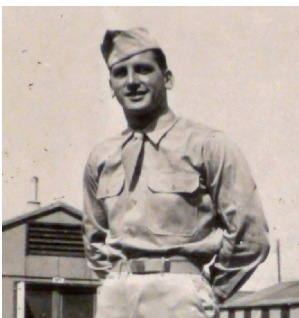

1943—Uncle Bob served in the Army and spotted for artillery in the European Theatre.

1943—Uncle Dave served in the Navy on the USS Philadelphia in the European Theatre.

1944—Uncle Gene served in the Army in the Pacific Theatre.

1946—Uncle Don served in the Army.

1962—Uncle John served in the Navy for many years all over the country and across the world. (Sorry I couldn't find a better picture)

2008—James Bundy is currently serving in the Marines. He did one tour of duty in Afghanistan and, according to Marty's update, will return in December.
